QUESTIONS ABOUT YOUR FAMILY-OWNED FOREST?

For a majority of landowners, timber harvesting occurs once every seven to ten years, depending on the type of forest. The methods of management and harvesting can greatly influence the financial return and productivity of the next timber crop.

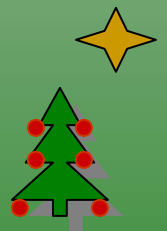

- TCL foresters have extensive knowledge of timber appraisal and market value.
- TCL foresters can help you with your long term goals for the health and management of your timberland.
- TCL foresters consult with landowners on pre-harvest planning.

It pays to work with a TCL professional who has respect for your goals, your timberland and its future potential. To arrange your free on-site evaluation and timber appraisal, contact Jim Hunt at Tri-County Logging, Inc. at 517-456-5800 or 800-327-2812, ext. 341.

MEET OUR PROCUREMENT TEAM MEMBER

SHANE O'HEARON

Shane was born in Toledo, Ohio, moved to Michigan and resided in the Leslie area most of his adult life. He now resides in Albion with his wife, Andrea, and three children: Sean, Shamus, and Shaylee. In Shane's free time, he enjoys hunting, fishing, mountain biking, and camping – anything that allows him to experience nature at its fullest.

Shane worked for Tri-County Logging, Inc. as a logger for 18 years. In 2001, he completed Sustainable Forestry Initiative Classes and, in August of 2005, received the "Logger of the Year Award" from the Michigan Forest Association.

In May of 2011, Shane joined the Tri-County timber procurement team. Shane believes communication between himself and the landowner is the key to success. This communication insures that the landowner is knowledgeable and comfortable through the complete timber harvesting process from start to finish.

Shane prides himself in proper timber management and select logging practices for the betterment of woodlots. This allows for future harvesting of the same tracts in 7 to 10 year intervals. He believes it is vital to take the input of landowners to help guide them in creating healthier woodlots.
